

ARMED FACTIONS FACE EACH OTHER IN GERMAN CAPITAL

Troops Reported Deserting. Government--Rioting For Past 48 Hours--Railways Paralyzed--Hindenburg Out as Army Head.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Berlin, June 26.—Rumors spread throughout Berlin early today that several volunteer divisions, which have been protecting the city against communist disorders, have resolved to dissolve and abandon Berlin to the Spartacists, who have been participating in the rioting going here for the last 48 hours.

Their leaders decided upon this action, it was reported, following the resignation of Field Marshal von Hindenburg, from the chief command of the army. The war ministry is attempting to prevent the disaffection from spreading to other units in the army.

Civil Strife Again Menaces.

London, June 26.—Berlin is a great armed camp with the tension between the communists and the reactionaries so great that a single shot may bring bloody civil war, said a Central News dispatch from Berlin today.

The communist soldiers' councils have distributed large quantities of arms and ammunition to soldier members and their civilian adherents. The government's position is growing more serious and some troops are deserting. The ministry of marine has been converted into a fortress and the surrounding streets are barricaded. Government soldiers have occupied the newspaper offices.

Railways Tied Up.

As a result of the railway strike, the most important lines are tied up and the stations barricaded. It is reported that General Luttwitz is attempting to form a new government with military support.

A Reuter dispatch from Berlin reported that sniping continued throughout the night from the roofs of houses and buildings all over the city.

Troops were called out to clear the Alexanderplatz of an enormous crowd of rioters. Bands of looters held up the street cars. There were frequent clashes between the troops and bands of looters.

SCHUHLE HAS PLAN FOR SANITARIUM

Grape Juice King Active in Reorganization of Sahler Sanitarium--Would Build Up Report--Offers $50,000 of Preferred Stock.

John Schuhle, the Highland grape juice man who has built up a business that calls for a doubling of the plant's capacity every year or two, has been in town for several weeks, stopping at the Dr. C. O. Sahler Sanitarium. While here he has interested himself in a reorganization of the Sanitarium management, financial and otherwise, with a view to placing it on a better financial basis.

Under the reorganization plan Mrs. C. O. Sahler will remain as president and general manager. Mrs. John Schuhle will be the vice president. John Schuhle will be treasurer and general business manager, and William Arkins secretary. The medical department will be in charge of Dr. Gustavus A. Altmeyer as managing physician and medical director. Dr. Altmeyer was recently mustered out of service in the medical corps of the United States Army, in which he held the rank of captain. The metaphysical department will be in charge of Frederick C. Bird, D. D., N. D., S. T., director and lecturer. It is proposed to issue $50,000 of preferred stock bearing 7 per cent interest, the proceeds to be used as working capital and for the purpose of taking up other indebtedness. Mr. Schuhle says the property of the Sanitarium is worth $150,000 and that it will be a good paying proposition not only for the stockholders but for the whole city by reason of the number of visitors with money to spend it will continue to bring here. If the new stock cannot be marketed here he will take it to Poughkeepsie, where he is sure he can find ready sale for it.

A Reminder of Other Days.

The sawing off of a big wooden arm extending to the street from the top of the John Schuhle side of the Dimmick building Wednesday, brought forth a number of queries why the arm had ever been placed there. In the early seventies when the building was erected a piano store was on the third floor, run by Brian A. Durham, and the arm was used to hold a rope with which the big square pianos of those days were hoisted to the top floor and hauled in through a window.

Boy Scouts, Troop 4.

The regular meeting of Troop 4 will be held Friday evening at seven o'clock. Scouts are asked to meet promptly, patrol leaders will make reports, and the troop will hike to Fourth Park for scout activities and games.

WALLKILL VALLEY TRAINMEN HEARD

West Shore Superintendent McCoy Argues Before Public Service Commission That Wallkill Valley R. R. Is Exempt From Operation of Full Crew Law.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Albany, June 26.—The public service commission, second district, today heard the complaint of John Fitzgibbons, representing the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen against the New York Central railroad for alleged violation of the full crew law on the Wallkill Valley railroad between Kingston and Campbell Hall and Montgomery. Mr. Fitzgibbons and A. D. Lamphere represented the trainmen, and Visscher, Austin and Whalen of Albany, the railroad. William K. McCoy of New York, superintendent of the West Shore and the Wallkill road was also present.

Mr. McCoy was the only witness sworn. He described train operation on the Wallkill road, practically admitting the allegations in Mr. Fitzgibbons' complaint. Mr. McCoy, however, claimed that there was no continuous traffic from the West Shore to the Wallkill road except in the case of an emergency and that the Wallkill road was under separate operation. It was claimed by the railroad that the question involved related only to the application of the law to the Wallkill road, which it was claimed, was less than 50 miles in length and that the law did not apply.

Mr. Lamphere and Mr. Fitzgibbons insisted that the lease of the Wallkill road to the New York Central was an absolute lease and that the Wallkill road should not be exempted from the provisions of the law any more than other lines operated by the New York Central and less than 50 miles in length. Mr. Fitzgibbons said the intent of the legislature in inserting the 50 mile provision was to exempt logging railroads in the Adirondacks where no passengers were carried. It was claimed that on trains of over 25 cars there should be three trainmen. The commission reserved its decision.

60 SIGN FOR UNIFORM CLOSING

Chairman Robin Stelle, of the retail trade group of the chamber of commerce, said this morning that the movement to secure uniform closing hours in Kingston retail stores during July and August has progressed very favorably.

About 60 stores have already signed an agreement to close at 5 o'clock each day from July 7 to August 30, Saturdays excepted.

The signatures to this agreement include department stores, men and women's clothing, shoes and other allied line doing business under similar conditions.

The complete list of signatures to this agreement will be published shortly. This agreement means the ending of the confusion which has been caused in the past by the maintenance of some six different closing hour plans. It is a long step forward in the development of Kingston as a center for retail trade.

CHICAGO AWAITS "RED" OUTBREAK

Troops With Machine Guns Will Be on Hand July 4 to Prevent Radical Demonstrations.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Chicago, June 26.—Troops of the Illinois reserve militia, with machine guns and other necessary equipment are to guard Chicago from any "Red" outbreak on July 4. The regiments of the militia, it became known today, are being armed and trained to prevent any radical demonstration.

Permission to use the militia to guard the city has been given the department of justice and the United States marshals by the governor of Illinois.

Government officials have known for weeks of the plans of the "Reds" to stage demonstrations in Chicago and elsewhere on July 4, and the calling in of the militia here is but one of many steps that have been taken to guard against outbreaks.

Headquarters of the Chicago "Reds" will be under guard of troops while others will patrol one street in districts where outbreaks might be expected. Motorcycle machine guns will be held in readiness for service in any part of the city and automobiles loaded with picked militiamen will be stationed at various centers.

COST COONS $50 HITTING MINER

That Is Amount of Fine Imposed on Downs Street Father Who, Because His Child Failed to Pass Exams, Beat up Principal of School No. 6.

Because his daughter failed to pass her June examinations at Public School No. 6, Martin Coons, of No. 198 Downs street, called at the school Tuesday and administered a thrashing to Principal Harley G. Miner, which led to the principal swearing out a warrant for the arrest of Coons on a charge of assault in the third degree. Coons was placed under arrest Wednesday afternoon by Officer Simon Wood.

This morning when Mr. Coons was arraigned in police court before Judge Schrick the faculty of the public schools was well represented, with a number of principals of the other grade schools, and Harry H. Flemming, president of the board of education, present at the hearing.

How It Happened.

Principal Miner was represented by Principal Andrew Lang of School No. 5, and after Coons had entered a plea of guilty to the charge, Principal Lang stated to the court that the facts in the case in brief were as follows: Mr. Coons' daughter is a pupil at School No. 6. Last winter she failed to pass her examinations, and so was not promoted. In spite of that she forced herself into the higher grade, and Principal Miner made no objections. At that time nothing was done in the matter. Tuesday he called at the school and used profane language and was ordered from the office by Principal Miner, and retaliated by striking the principal. Mr. Miner then left the office and Mr. Coons followed him out into the corridor and in the presence of several of the women teachers knocked Miner down.

Principal Lang said the assault was unjustified and unprovoked and urged that a sufficient penalty be dealt out to serve as a lesson to others that such acts could not be safely committed in Kingston.

President Flemming of the education board stated that Mr. Lang had stated the facts correctly, and that the education board desired such punishment to be dealt out as would deter any other from attempting to follow in Coons' footsteps.

Is "Damn" Profane?

Mr. Coons, when asked by the court, if he had any explanation to make, stated that he had gone over to the school and laying the report card of his child down on the desk of Mr. Miner had said, "You have pulled off the same damn stunt as last year."

"Do you call damn profane?" asked Coons, turning to the court.

"Go on with your explanation," retorted the court.

"Mr. Miner said to me you must get out, and accused me of using profane language, but all I said was damn, and I don't call that profane. I am a little quick tempered and I handed him one. I only struck him once and he fell over on his hands and knees. He did you ever see a man fall that way when hit? He only did it on purpose."

Mr. Coons, in reply to questions by Judge Schrick, said that he was married and had three children, and that at present he was working in Newburgh.

"Thanks," Muttered Coons.

Judge Schrick asked Principal Miner to step forward and examined the principal's face. It is still badly bruised and one corner of the mouth is covered over with court plaster.

Then turning to Coons the court stated: "Your place is in the county jail, but you are the breadwinner of the family, and any sentence I may impose falls upon your wife and three children. Animals of your character need to be punished heavily."

"Thanks," interrupted Mr. Coons at this juncture.

"I don't want to hold you for contempt of court for that remark," retorted Judge Schrick, "and I hope what I say will sink in. I fine you $50, which is the maximum fine. Where you belong is in jail and that is eventually where you will end up, if you do not pull up short on your career."

Had Only 50 Cents With Him.

Coons when led from the court room by Sergeant Hanley informed the sergeant when asked if he desired to pay his fine that all he had with him was fifty cents.

If he does not pay the fine he must spend one day in the county jail for every dollar of the fine not paid.

MUELLER, LEINERT AND GIESBERTS ARE NEW GERMAN PEACE DELEGATES

CROWN PRINCE FLEES HOLLAND

Paris Accepts Report That he Has Been Aided to Return to Germany in Attempt to Restore Monarchy and Evade Trial by Allies--Latter to Demand His Surrender.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Paris, June 26.—Peace conference circles are materially concerned over a report that the former German crown prince Frederick William Hohenzollern has escaped from Holland and returned to Germany.

The report of the crown prince's escape reached army intelligence sources here. Though the news is not yet official, it is generally accepted as true.

The report occasioned no surprise here, in view of the resolutions adopted by the German Officers' Association, declaring that they would protect the ex-kaiser, the princes and Ludendorff from trial by the allies. If the news is confirmed, it is accepted here that the Allies will make an immediate demand upon the new German government for the surrender of the crown prince as a matter of principle, regardless of whether he was brought to trial or not. It was conceded that the receipt of such a demand by the new government would immediately precipitate a crisis in Germany with the military party threatening revolution if the government acceded to the Allies' request.

It was believed possible here that the crown prince's reported escape is part of a dramatic coup by which the reactionary party in Germany hopes to overthrow the republic and restore the monarchy by force of arms.

Several reports have reached the peace conference, since Germany's acceptance of the treaty, that German military leaders, have threatened revolt if the government accepted the treaty. They were particularly opposed to the clause providing for the surrender of trial of the ex-kaiser and others held responsible for the war.

It was considered certain that the crown prince, the leader of the militarist party, would be among those sought for trial by the Allies and it is believed that he fled to Germany, hoping to escape falling into the hands of the Allies.

The crown prince has, since his abdication on December 1, 1918, been interned on the tiny island of Weieringen, off the north coast of Holland.

While ostensibly under "internment" by the Dutch authorities, the heir of the Hohenzollerns has been allowed great freedom in his movements. It is known that he has been kept constantly informed of the state of affairs in Germany, through friendly couriers. Visitors have constantly come and gone from the cottage in which he makes his home.

RECITAL WITH UNIQUE FEATURE

Large Audience Enjoyed Playing Of Miss Riccobono's Little Pupils and Numbers By Miss Babcock and Maurice Baker.

Wednesday evening there was a large gathering of friends and those interested in the musical growth of our city, at Symphony Hall, the occasion being a musical entertainment given by the pupils of Miss Emilia Riccobono, assisted by Maurice Baker, violinist, and Miss Birdella Babcock, soprano soloist.

The first part of the program was given over largely to the little folks, who played their numbers with confidence and considerable musical ability. The tone production and fingering being excellent. Some of the little folks showed decided musical talent, and the numbers chosen for their playing were excellent in themselves, making a particularly interesting program. Special mention should be made of the playing of the "Rhapsodia Zingara," of H. Necke, by little Miss Ottilia Riccobono, as it showed, in execution and interpretation, exceptional musical gifts.

The second half of the program was quite unique in character. The audience thoroughly enjoyed Miss Babcock's singing, for she has an unusually sweet, bird-like soprano voice, and it is being admirably trained. She was accompanied by her sister, Miss Beulah Babcock. The vocal numbers added greatly to the enjoyableness of the evening.

Another feature which all greatly enjoyed was the violin solo, the "Meditation," from "Thais," by Massenet, played with excellent tonal effect and broad interpretation by Maurice Baker, assisted at the piano by Miss I. Joslovitz.

Then there were three exceedingly pretty "characteristic" dances, given by the young people. "A Little Dance," given by May and Marjorie Turner, was that of a captivating little Jack Tar and Red Cross nurse, both in costume. The "Sketch," also in costume, was a bedtime dance with candles ready for lighting. The "Old French Dance," was made the more attractive because of the pretty costumes of the dancers.

This fine program closed with the reciting of "The Two Grenadiers," given by Lillie Frier, wearing a beautiful American flag draped about her shoulders and with sword in hand, typifying the union of France and America. The musical accompaniment to this number was played by Miss Riccobono, the entire number being remarkably striking and picturesque.

All present were enthusiastic in their congratulations to Miss Riccobono, whom they would have been glad to hear play, herself, and for the pupils all of whom did so well. The entire program was as follows:

KINGSTON, N. Y., JUNE 26, 1919.

A very curious provision was recently made by a New York testator against the intrusion of undesirable corpses in the burial ground in which he now sleeps and which he largely controlled during his life. He willed that no "Sabbath violators" should ever profane his cemetery. Apparently it did not occur to him, in his absorption in his idea, that he had laid an impossible task upon his son who is expected to exhaust his energies in the effort to acquire a full knowledge of the past Sunday habits of every one of the many hundreds of candidates for burial.

There has been a flux of oratory as to how we are to make Kingston beautiful ten, twenty, fifty years from now. In the meantime the grass on Pine Grove avenue, one of the most beautiful streets of the city, is dying for want of water, and the vitality of the trees planted in the center of that street is being lessened by the growth of sprouts from their roots. How would it do for the board of public works to contribute towards beautifying Kingston in this year of grace, 1919. Possibly the Kingstonians of 1939 then will be able to do their share. The most forlorn looking lawn in Kingston is that of the court house on Wall street. A couple of years ago the sheriff of the county in his effort to make Kingston attractive, bought a few flowering plants to adorn it, but our board of supervisors refused to pay the bill, and neglect as well to furnish fertilizer for the lawn. Ulster is said to be the only county in the state that takes no pride in its court house and the surroundings of the building.

THE DRUG HABIT.

There are more than a million persons in the United States who habitually make use of harmful narcotic drugs. Popular estimates, always apt to be excessive, have varied from two to four millions. The more moderate estimate is found in the report of the government's investigating committee appointed last March, a report based largely on questionnaires sent to druggists, physicians and police officials as well as on records of manufacture and importation. Replies were received from 52 per cent of the druggists approached, from about one-third of the physicians, and from 760 of the 1,263 chiefs of police of cities of more than 5,000 population. The committee estimates the number of "dope fiends" as more than a million, but shows that on the basis of the number reported in Jacksonville, Fla., in 1918, the total number in the United States was 1,388,600, and that on the basis of the reports for New York city it was 1,908,000. New York would naturally be regarded as exceptional because of the excitement and wear and tear of life there. Presumably Jacksonville is also regarded as exceptional because it is in a prohibition state, inability to procure intoxicants being prominently mentioned among the causes of the increase of the drug habit. These causes in the order of their frequency, as estimated in reports made to the committee, are given as follows: Use of physicians' prescriptions, association with others addicted to drugs, prohibition, use of drugs for chronic diseases, curiosity to learn the effect of the drug, use of patent or proprietary medicines, use of drugs as a stimulant (which further relates to prohibition), idleness and use by dentists.

It is notable that efforts to decrease the use of drugs has not infrequently appeared to have the opposite of the desired effect. In this connection it is stated that the increases reported are mostly in the larger cities "and in particular in those cities where more than the usual attention is being directed to the eradication of drug addiction." The committee declares that the use of harmful drugs for other than legitimate medical needs is nation-wide and has materially increased in some sections in spite of the efforts of federal, state and local authorities, but adds that there has been no very definite or concerted action by a majority of state and municipal governments to suppress illicit traffic and use. The increase in the use of drugs and the fearful evils involved in the habit are made very plain, and a campaign of education is strongly recommended. Ventilation of the subject and measures of restraint, however, need to be followed in the case of the victims with the building up or strengthening of weakened moral stamina.

LITTLE LAUGHS.

"Second thoughts are best," said the sage. "But you can't do much thinking in a second," maintained the utter dolt.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

"Isn't Nexdore's wife rather fond of an argument?" "Is she?" Why, yes, she is so fond of an argument she won't even eat anything that agrees with her.—Boston Transcript.

Bacon—"You know the Englishman does everything with his hat on." Egbert—"Well, he doesn't sleep that way, does he?" "Sure. In the House of Parliament."—Yonkers Statesman.

"The sample of soil you submit," announced the expert, "shows that that your land is not suitable for raising crops of any kind." "Thanks awfully," responded the owner. "In that case I'll subdivide it for country villas."—Kansas City Journal.

"Now, my dear," said Mr. Crosslots, "we must avoid contradicting the new cook or hurting her feelings in any way." "Of course," replied the patient woman. "I'll phone the employment agency right away and find out what her views are on the League of Nations."—Washington Star.

"I'll pay the dinner check." "All right, and I'll ransom our hats." "Ransom is a good term for it."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

"My dear, I hope you won't be angry. The boys presented me with a loving cup." "Um." Of course, we filled it a few times. "I can realize that. What you brought home was a tomato can."—Kansas City Journal.

"Were any of your boyish ambitions ever realized?" asked the sentimentalist. "Yes," said the practical person. "When my mother used to cut my hair I often wished I might be bald-headed."—Boston Transcript.

Guest—"I would have been here sooner, but I had the misfortune to puncture a tire on a broken bottle." Host—"But couldn't you see the bottle?" Guest—"Well, hardly; you see it was in the pocket of the fellow I ran over."—Life.

"There are two sides to every question," remarked the ready-made philosopher. "There's two sides to a hickory nut," rejoined Farmer Corn-tassel; "an outside and an inside, but only one of 'em is worth payin' attention to."—Washington Star.

A BLUE serge suit is always good on all occasions; but all blue serges are not good in quality. Unless they're fast in color and all-wool better not have one.

Hart Schaffner &amp; Marx

blue serges are right; guaranteed to be that way; you can't go wrong when you get yours here; extra values right now.

What about shirts?

Better have plenty of them for summer and you ought to have good ones. We have them; all fabrics and all colors; silks, cords, silk and linens, crepes, madras shirts—and exceptional values.

Stylish straw hats

Just getting on a "straw" doesn't mean you're stylish; some shapes and weaves are good—others aren't. You can be sure of the correct thing here; Panamas, Sennets, Bankoks are the good ones.

For A Spencer School Girl

Many Spencer's School girls, and boys, too, are commanding high salaries as Civil Service appointees with the U. S. Government. The demand for stenographers, typists and bookkeepers increases right along. In one department at Washington, 1,000 stenographers are needed at once and Spencer's School has been asked to supply as many as possible. Just pause and consider what such an appointment means. A position for life! Your position is yours always—good times or bad! No delay in pay! No "cheap" competitor can step in and snatch your job by offering to work for less money as is the case in other lines of work.

If you want a life position at salaries between $1,200 and $1,400 a year, enroll in the Civil Service department and prepare yourself without delay, but, remember, you MUST come to Spencer's School to secure this remarkable preparation. Enroll for the SPECIAL SUMMER SESSION.

ALUMNI REUNION THIS EVENING

Informal Gathering of Academy and High School Graduates—
Vaudeville, Business and Dancing.

Tonight the annual reunion of the Kingston High School Alumni Association will be held in the "gym" of the high school beginning at 7:30 o'clock. It was hoped by the executive committee of the association that the memorial tablet to the five members of the association who gave their lives in the late war would be dedicated during commencement week. The delay in the signing of the peace treaty and the fact that the Gorham Company who have the contract for designing and casting the tablet have been rushed with work, made this impossible. The tablet will be dedicated this fall, a member of the executive committee stated today, with appropriate ceremonies at which it is expected a high officer of the Twenty-seventh Division will be present to speak.

Tonight's festivities will be informal in every respect. Graduates of Kingston and Ulster Academies, of Kingston High School and students who were in attendance at the high school for a period of four years will be welcome. The assessment fee has been placed at seventy-five cents each; $1.50 per couple. Each member is entitled to bring a friend, although this is not mandatory and will in no way interfere with the pleasure of those who attend the reunion unaccompanied. The committee state that they have knowledge of several members, young men and young women, who will be present unaccompanied.

The reunion will open with a vaudeville skit which is enshrouded in mystery. Then comes the business session to be followed by dancing and refreshments. The present officers of the association are: President, Alfred Schmid; vice president, Ruth A. Humphrey; secretary, Alice M. Reilly; treasurer, Rose Bergen. The five members of the executive committee are: George W. Greene, Edward T. Stelle, Wilson Lefevre, Olga V. S. Owens and Harry Connel.

Accord, June 26.—There is such a thing as carrying a joke too far and this point has been reached on the part of the person who helped themself to the sum of money from the "Old Fellow" Hall the night of the farmhouse play. To avoid full consequences of the joke we strongly advised said party to return the amount at once. It would be by far the best most sum above expenses last year and it is evident that they are not to do better this year.

The annual picnic of the town ably be held early in August this

BURLESON ROUSES DITTUS TELLS OF A. F. OF L. IRE 23 DAYS FIGHTING

Labor Men United In Resenting His Failure To Permit Bargaining of Employees Under Him.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Atlantic City, June 26.—President Compers and practically the entire membership of the American Federation of Labor are bitterly opposed to what they term the autocratic rule of Postmaster General Burleson and are determined that unless he recedes from his determination not to permit collective bargaining on the part of the telegraph, telephone and postal employees he shall be compelled to resign.

During the progress of the convention of the workers here a committee was appointed to call on Burleson and obtain such a concession as well as for the electrical workers under his authority. He agreed to permit such bargaining for the electrical workers who were to be turned back to private control within ten days thereafter, and left the impression that he would soon do more for the large bodies of men and women for whom the plea was primarily made. Secretary Morrison, of the Federation, gave out a statement that he understood the postmaster general to say that he would make further concessions; but no sooner had the delegation gotten out of sight that Burleson declared that no such action had been taken. Hence the resentment at the convention has been even greater than had he made the slight concession to the electrical men.

So the convention adopted a resolution which declares that "whereas, President Wilson in his message to Congress made this declaration: 'The question which stands at the front of all others in every country amidst the present great awakening is the question of labor. The object of all reform in this essential matter must be the genuine democratization of industry, based upon a full recognition of those who work in whatever rank, to participate in some organic way in every decision which directly affects their welfare or the part they play in industry.' And whereas Postmaster General Burleson has pursued a labor policy in direct conflict with this enunciation of principles and in answer to President Compers of the American Federation of Labor has enunciated as 'silly' the right of collective bargaining. And whereas Mr. Burleson has ruthlessly invaded the rights of the employees and has interfered in defiance of law with the proper functioning of their organization, and has also sought to have repealed the employee's constitution right to petition Congress. And whereas Burleson's archaic and autocratic policy has resulted in a demoralized service, discontented and resentful employees." Burleson's resignation is then called for.

In Rain and Fog Without Change of Clothing—"You Never Know What Is Going to Happen Next," But Plenty Happened.

The Rotary Club, at its weekly luncheon Wednesday, listened to the relation of some hard, prosaic facts about the war by Lieut. Rudolph C. Dittus, who was the guest of the club. The address was not a flowery oration such as might be delivered by one who had never been within 4,000 miles of a battle and had nothing of pomp and panoply, glitter and romance, in it, but was just a plain talk about the work by one of the workmen who had "made good on the job."

It was far more interesting and enlightening than anything the professional spellbinders hand out, dealing as it did with facts and personal experiences. The lieutenant related an incident that occurred in a hospital shortly after the armistice was signed. An American asked a Canadian, "Who won the war?" "I don't know," replied the Canadian, "who did?" "North America," was the reply.

The British Lieutenant Dittus said, he found most congenial and obliging. Anything they had or anything they could do was ours. The first question on going to their quarters was "Have you had anything to eat?" Usually the answer was that they had not and then something to eat, and also something to drink, was at once produced. Our first experience with them was when we had been across for about three weeks when some of us were sent out with them as observers, for training. We went to division headquarters, brigade headquarters and at each place were royally fed the first thing they took us out under fire. First we ducked every time we heard a shell coming, but after the first two days we got over that and realized that it did no good. The fire was usually low and the man who was down would get it, while if he was up he might just get hit in the legs.

The first time I went out in front of the line was with a British officer. There was a German machine gun about 30 yards from us and the British started firing on our right. Then down came a barrage and for two hours we lay there between two fires. You never know what is going to happen next. Plans are made, but something else happens and then there you are. In the last battle into which we went with about 30 officers I found myself with only three left and for the last two days I had to run the battalion.

We were stationed in a village along a small river, about like being stationed on Mill street. Both armies had machine guns in the buildings on the Strand and Ferry street and the German artillery across the stream. We examined the stream in the night to see if it could be forded and if there was any barbed wire in it. We were to start at 5:05 in the morning, but a few minutes before that time the Germans outcoursed us, got the range, opened fire and we lost about 20 men. So we got out ahead of time. I was the only lieutenant in the company I had picked up the second lieutenant dead the night before, he having been killed by a high explosive shell. We had to move, so we moved ahead, toward the Germans. Some of our men were killed by our own barrage. A barrage is timed to move ahead 100 yards in three minutes and the men are supposed to keep behind it, but we were going down hill and the men ran and ran into their own barrage. We got across and found the ridge on the other side swept by German machine guns and we had to wait until our barrage shifted to them and smashed them. A few escaped the artillery and we had to get them. On account of the smoke, fog and rain you could not see 100 yards.

We did not reach our objective that day. The tanks helped some, but they were so big and moved so slowly that it was easy for the Germans to get the range and put them out of business. The tanks in our rear did good work clearing the way for the 107th Regiment which was following us. At 2 o'clock next morning the 107th leap-frogged us and went ahead. We were supposed to have one-pounders and trench mortars following us, but we did not have them. We got some one-pounders but no men to handle them. I knew how to use them but was too busy. We were supposed to have a second line, but we had no support. Next morning we leap-frogged the 107th. It took us four days to do what was planned to do in two days. We held the position for 24 hours. We had 425 men left in our regiment, the 108th. We asked to be relieved but were told to hold out. The British were supposed to relieve us, but they got there late.

We had been on the go for 23 days without change of clothes, not even a change of socks. We had forded streams at the beginning and were wet all the time, for it was raining every day. When we were relieved there were 25 men left in my company. We were due to go back into action November 16, our ranks having been refilled with replacement men, but the armistice was signed November 11 and that ended the war. In this battle we were sandwiched between British and French divisions, probably with the idea that we would carry them along and we did. The British are all right but they gave us the toughest part of the line, probably because we were fresh and had the men.

Lieutenant Dittus exhibited a term and waged war that he carried with him in the last days of the battle and which had been soaked when he forded a river.

BRITISH SIDE OF IRISH QUESTION

Should Be Presented Here Says London Press—De Valera Here May Mean Congressional Recognition It Feels.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

LONDON, June 26.—Commenting upon the murder of Police Inspector Hunt in Ireland and the reluctance with which the coroner's jury returned a verdict of murder, the Daily Express today declared that it "commends a study of this inquest and these strange proceedings to the congress of the United States." The English newspapers are displaying great interest in the movements in the United States of De Valera, president of the "Irish republic," whose appearance in America is expected to be followed by more moves of the Irish sympathizers in the American congress. "If De Valera is allowed a free platform, we will find congress recognizing the Irish republic," said the Express. "We urge the need of British propaganda in America. We plead for sane consideration by American public opinion. Until Great Britain discovers what Ireland wants we will apply our Monroe Doctrine to the Irish question. It must be respected." The Irish unionists have adopted a resolution supporting the government and deprecating the manifesto of the Irish Catholic bishops, issued from Mayo, attacking military rule in Ireland.

HIGHLAND.

evening at 8 o'clock the M. E. Church was filled to overflowing for the commencement exercises of the class of 1919. The church was tastefully decorated, class colors being green and white. The young ladies looked attractive in their pure white gowns. The class presented a fine appearance. Rev. G. H. Schofield, pastor of the Presbyterian Church opened with prayer. The salutatory address by Miss Gertrude Auchmoody and valedictory address by Miss Ethel Cummings were fine, and would remind us that no one in our calling or station laments, that they have received too much training or acquired too much knowledge and often there are regrets for an idle school life and an unfinished course of study. There is an increasing call for highly educated people. Every ambitious young woman and man must carefully consider what they are giving up when they resolve to "quit school." They are closing countless open doors to distinction, usefulness and happiness and we would say in instruction, discipline, learning and culture are the watchwords of leadership and they come largely through the schools. The orchestra and vocal solo high school chorus were good and the grand address was given by Rev. F. D. Elmer, D. D. pastor of First Baptist Church, Poughkeepsie, on "Seeing Things" and he knows just what to say and all of us who have any conception of what God's image is of what we at our best, can do must long for great attainments, for thoughts and feelings above the aims of self life for sympathies "universal and Christly, for an obedient and incorruptible will, for skill and power, developed to the utmost and set to the noble service of God to man for such a character, service and life. There is no price, toil or self-denial can be too great. The presentation of diplomas by principal E. A. Marsh came next which was of the nature of a "leader" in and soon many were knowledge if this were not so, this time and amusing themselves by the high school's history would not till after midnight. Punch was shown by his work in the four years, Principal E. A. Marsh received these around him and he has been successful which stimulates him to greater activities and as he and his wife have for other fields of labor. 1919 class will cling in our memories them many beautiful flowers were gifts to the graduates and every member of 1919 class received beautiful and useful gifts from relatives and friends which will be to them a reminder of their Highland high school life and graduation. Miss Lucy Smith of Brooklyn is reading some time with Dr. and Mrs. Webster Terwilliger on Clintondale road.

The bicentennial ceremony to the graduating class of 1919 was delivered last Sunday evening in the M. E. church by the pastor, the Rev. F. D. Elmer, D. D. and it was one that each person, not only graduates, could profit by the grand address he gave and the decision as to the merits of an industry for life work, which would strengthen one's character, inspire others and help humanity, and make one good and true, and he made it plain that all must prepare themselves to take a glorious part in the age of advance and victory and make sure in regard to character, which is worth so much in this world. The choir, led by Mrs. Schenck and the soloists by Mrs. Schenck and G. G. Schenck were highly complimented. The church was filled and much decorated.

F. L. Metcalf's home was at the disposal of about 40 guests last Wednesday evening when a formal and reception was given in honor of Fred and Mrs. E. A. Marsh, also two other teachers in the high school who all leave this week for various places where in the fall, they will give instructions to guide others to carry forward and work. Everyone spent a very delightful evening. There was a short time for a picnic to music of singing and recitations and all enjoyed the idea. With each other and lunch. The people wanted their way home late, thinking of the pleasant trip, with friends and going to the departure of some, who have their vacation here every Saturday with the return of all by their train on their motorcycle.

Class day exercises, reception and dance in Feeter's Hall Monday evening was a success. Long before the hour on the invitation the place was filled, and standing room was at a premium. The class numbered 16.

Miss Eugenia Terwilliger, class president, gave a fine address, and the faculty response by Miss Barnes and alumni response by W. C. Terwilliger, class '16, showed their hearts throbbing with anxious solicitude and hope for the grand work upon which all will enter in the future. The class history and class prophecy were fine and our friend, Janet Freston, in looking in the mirror, read the future from the past of some of the class. And to cap all, Louis Palmer gave the last will and testament, which created much merriment among the class and all present. The piano solo of the class, also class song, were well rendered, and everyone was delighted with the program. At the finish the seats in the hall were removed, making the floor clear for dancing. Ruthertford's Jazz Band of Poughkeepsie furnished the music, and soon many were passing the time and amusing themselves by the high school's history would not till after midnight. Punch was shown by his work in the four years, Principal E. A. ## REBUILDING NATION'S FIGHTERS WHO WERE DISABLED IN WAR WITH HUN

Physical Training Which Played Its Part in Creating the Finest Army in the World Is Now Taking a Prominent Part in Restoring Our Soldiers to Self-Supporting Place in Civil Life.

By LIEUT. COL. HARRY E. MOCK, M. C., in "Carry On."

The pugilist and the ball player, the wrestler and the football coach, even the little jap flutist artist, all had their very definite parts in the training of the nation during this war. And why? Because each had something vital to contribute to the physical development of the soldiers, something which made them better fighters, forgetful of fear, and able to care for themselves when thrown on their own responsibility in a single-handed combat with a dozen or more Hun.

All of the warring nations used these various forms of physical development in making their fighting men. Characteristic of America, where athletics of all kinds have become so highly organized, the training of the soldiers in every camp in the early days of the war resembled the preparation for a huge athletic carnival. Physical trainers of every description were early mobilized and rendered invaluable service in preparing our doughboys for the great struggle overseas.

The country is now quite familiar with all these efforts. But very few people realize to what extent these same methods and the same physical trainers are assisting in the restoration of the returning soldiers who have been disabled in the war.

The physical training department of our hospital schools is the least talked of division in the whole reconstruction program, and yet no division is doing more for the physical restoration of the disabled men, to put the fight back into them, than a well-organized, enthusiastic physical training department.

Experience in England.

In England during these more than four years of war, the question of manpower became very critical. It was necessary to salvage every wounded soldier as rapidly as possible, and, providing he could be made fit again, to return him to the firing line. This was true in all the nations long in the conflict and it is not at all uncommon to find soldiers who have been wounded four and five times who were returned after each recovery to the fight.

The convalescent camps and command depots of England furnish excellent examples of the use of physical training in restoring these wounded men. As soon as their active hospital treatment was completed the men were promoted to the convalescent camps. Here well-trained physiotherapists utilized every known method to overcome the stiffened joints and rebuild the atrophied muscles. But a great part of every day was given to physical training, graduated and carefully supervised by medical officers. Callisthenics, setting-up exercises, games of all descriptions and special development for individual cases were all utilized. As soon as these men had sufficiently developed to permit of group rather than individual training, they were transferred to the command depot where more strenuous exercises, games, and hardening processes were indulged in. As rapidly as men reached the physical condition required they were sent back to the front.

The French recognized the value of games in this physical training process to such an extent that they invented and described hundreds of new games suitable for all physical types of men, from the severe mangle to the perfectly fit.

United States Takes It Up.

During the last six months of the war the United States was forced to consider more carefully the conservation of her man-power. Development of her man-power, therefore, created in this country and convalescent camps in France where men who broke down in the training or who were wounded or disabled by disease could be sent to be reclaimed. Here again physical training played the chief role in restoring these soldiers.

A story is being told of the famous 120th in the development of this camp. It seems that when the division from this camp left for overseas they dumped into this hospital the riff-raff of their organization, so considered by the officers, convalescents from the base hospital were assigned to this battalion. Among a group was a soldier who had lost a right arm by accident—a "south w' lucky."

A young major, a West Pointer with vision, was left behind in charge of this medical battalion. Submerging his disappointment, he set about making soldiers out of the material in the camp. Within three weeks every man of the 120th in his outfit was classified as assigned to that type of physical training he wanted to his condition. They played some game. Two men who had been assigned to the machine team and two hours every day played their game. As the men developed physically they were promoted to a higher class.

Several full teams were formed, the best one being captured by the command of this team. This team, composed of physically handicapped soldiers and some who were considered "mild defectives" and otherwise unfit to do exercises with their comrades, became the champions of the Pacific front.

Become Champions.

To see the "trick" as they were called, clean up the track from front to back, running against the wind, trip across the country. This team symbolized the spirit which this major put into every man in the development battalion. He did it by means of physical training and competitive games. Eighty-five per cent of his men, formerly considered the riff-raff, developed into a class fighting men and went over.

Physical training has also had a definite part in the hospital and convalescent centers in restoring the wounded soldiers. Since the signing of the armistice the thought of the officers in charge of this work were turned from making fighting men to retraining fighting civilians—men imbued with determination and with a spirit to overcome every handicap.

Work Among Convalescents.

A great number of the physical trainers formerly assigned to combat divisions have been transferred to work among the convalescent soldiers. In the wards light setting-up exercises are given, but as soon as possible the patient is ordered out of doors to enter a little more strenuous training. Week by week his progress is noted and week by week he is promoted into a higher class—over working toward that day when his maximum restoration will be attained, his hardening process completed, and he will be ordered up for discharge.

Physical training has come into its own during this war. It has developed tens of thousands of hollow-chested, stooped-shouldered, slouchy young men into upstanding, fearless, stalwart specimens of American manhood. It has taken these unfit to go overseas and developed them to the point where they could go across or at least could do effective limited service and free other able-bodied men for combat service. And now it is playing a most important part in rebuilding the nation's fighters who have become disabled in the strife.

Object of the Foundation.

The spirit underlying the work of the Foundation is thus described by Dr. Vincent: "The activities of the Foundation are consistent parts of a unified program which is dominated by a purpose to promote the general aim of the Foundation as expressed in its charter: 'The Welfare of Mankind throughout the World.'"

"With the coming of peace the nations are making an effort to come into closer relations of understanding and good will. Gradually more normal conditions of intercourse will be re-established. Restrictions upon travel and commerce will be relaxed.

"There will be an exchange not only of commodities, but of ideas. Each country will be urged to contribute its best achievements to a common fund upon which all lands may draw. In this commerce of culture, science, sympathy and idealism the Rockefeller Foundation desires to put its policies, personnel and resources at the service of the world."

The members of the Rockefeller Foundation during 1918 were as follows:

As to Conforming to Fashion.

Avoid similarity. There may often be too much similarity in following the new modes than in following the old ones. It is true that the fashion is not the same, but the idea is the same. Instead of conforming to the fashion, conform to the idea.

Six hours a day the woman spends on food! Six mortal hours a day. ### ART OF SALAD MAKING.

Salad making is an art and through the combination of vegetables, fruit and other foods one may express artistic efforts. We all have a natural longing to find some new and refreshing way to serve the ordinary foods. Almost anything can be combined to make a salad, yet we would avoid the foods that do not harmonize as we avoid inviting to our tables those we know are not congenial to our friends.

Carrots, potatoes, turnips and such vegetables are usually cooked before using in a salad, yet a most appetizing dish is one with fresh grated carrots mixed in an ordinary vegetable salad and served with French dressing. If our stomachs are able to digest the cellulose in vegetables which is uncooked, we need not worry about uncooked starch, for that is taken care of without trouble, our digestive tell us.

Where a salad is to provide the main dish, food value should be the first consideration.

The arrangement of a salad is as important feature as well as garniture. Who has not refused a good and wholesome salad because of its unattractive appearance? The perfection of combination and flavor amount to little if the salad has been carelessly prepared.

When such firm vegetables as potatoes are used in a salad the dish is much better seasoned when marinated for an hour or two with some simple salad dressing which will permeate the food.

Green plants such as lettuce, celery and parsley whose chlorophyll in the leaves should be kept well chilled and served at once after the dressing has been added.

The small red radish is one of the most charming of garnishes to use, thinly sliced or in the form of a tuft by cutting through the skin to form the petals.

AMERICA'S IMMORTALS

JOHN C. VILLEPIGUE, Corporal, Company M, 118th Infantry.

For unusual bravery displayed in action at Vaux-anduzy, France, October 15, 1918, Corp. Villepigue was awarded the Distinguished Service Cross. Having been sent out with two other soldiers to scout through the village of Vaux-anduzy, Corp. Villepigue met with strong resistance from enemy machine gun fire, which killed one of his men and wounded the other. Continuing his advance, without aid, 500 yards in advance of his platoon and in the face of artillery and machine gun fire, he encountered four of the enemy in a dugout, whom he attacked and killed with a hand grenade. Crawling forward to a point 150 yards in advance of his first encounter he rushed a machine gun nest, killing four and capturing six of the enemy, and taking two light machine guns. After being joined by his platoon, he was severely wounded in the arm. Corp. Villepigue's home is with his mother, Mrs. J. T. Villepigue, 3517 Lytleton street, Camden, S. C.

"The End of a Perfect Day."

To not let the man who says, "This is the year when I am going to show you how to turn it," think that he will have all clear sailing. He will meet all sorts of things at every turn, and he may consider himself lucky if he gets off with a whole skin. The big thing is to stand on the far end of the bird when the bird is gathered in and the whole to say, "I did what I said I would!"

$25,000 A YEAR FOR DREAMING CRAZY DREAMS
That is Schuhle's Contract With the Biggest Chain of Drug Stores in America, Because the Crazy Dreams Came True—Grape Juice Plant Capacity Doubled and Something Much Bigger Coming.

The Schuhle grape juice factory at Highland is having its capacity doubled again. Doubling the capacity of the Schuhle plant means something worth while these days. Two years ago it had a capacity of 250,000 gallons. It was doubled then, giving a capacity of 500,000 gallons. Early last spring the last gallon of the 1918 production had been sold and since that time 250 carloads of the grape juice could have been sold had there been any to sell. Orders for 100 carloads of the 1919 production have already been booked. As only 350 carloads were manufactured last year, something had to be done and Mr. Schuhle is doing it.

The new building to be erected this summer will double the capacity of the plant, making it possible to turn out 1,000,000 gallons of grape juice this year, and will cost $100,000.
But that is the smallest part of the expansion planned. In front of the grape juice plant, between it and the road, will be erected a building 150 by 300 feet, four stories in height and costing, when fully equipped, $500,000. This building will be used for the manufacture of soda fountain syrups, jam, jelly and preserves. Shiploads of pineapples from the Hawaiian Islands and carloads of oranges from California will be brought to Highland to be turned into fruit syrups and preserves, everything in the fruit line grown in Ulster and adjoining counties will be bought and used for the same purpose. A $50,000 railroad siding will be built to the plant so that the raw material and the finished product can be unloaded and loaded direct, without any trucking or extra handling. At least 200 men will be employed when the new plant is completed, which will be within two years.

Of course, somebody will say that this is just another crazy dream of John Schuhle, just as they said several years ago when he first came to Highland and proposed to build a grape juice factory that would manufacture as much as 50,000 or 100,000 gallons of grape juice every year. But the "crazy dream" of that time has been realized five or ten times over, just as this latest one will be. John Schuhle makes a specialty of crazy dreams of that kind—dreams that come true and make money for everybody who took stock in them. The millionaire head of the biggest chain of drug stores in the United States, who now controls the Schuhle plant at Highland, and hires John Schuhle at a salary of $25,000 a year to run it, says he will fire Schuhle if he ever stops dreaming crazy dreams like those he has dreamed in the past.

AUTO PARK AT POINT.
City Has Provided Space and Man to Watch Cars.

The automobile parking place at Kingston Point Park is now open for the free use of automobile owners and there is accommodation for at least 100 cars. A man is in attendance who will keep watch over the cars. The park is at the rear of the small ice house, a short distance to the right of the entrance. The board of public works had its big auto truck cart ashes and material all winter and spring to fill in and level up the grounds. It must be understood that no automobiles or taxicabs will be allowed to run to the steamboat landings, unless to carry injured or ill persons to or from the day boats. Also there will be no one allowed to solicit passengers for taxis. It will no longer be necessary for automobilists to park their cars on the hill alongside the hotel at Kingston Point, nor along Delaware avenue, as the auto park is free.
